No text content is provided in the image.
Welcome to St. Paul,

- joins today, Sunday, April 24.
- Children are at entrances to the Sanctuary.
- Wine tasting is available from an usher. Worship bags for children are available. For nursing moms, a designated room is in the Library Commons. Silent pagers help worshipers and seek out our staffed nursery in the library.
- We greet one another after worship. The warmth of your greeting carries something of the church with it. As you greet others, glance at other names and look for your chance to greet them.
- The Bible is filled with texts that assume people’s right to a livelihood, often emphasizing the community’s responsibility for ensuring their members’ economic well-being. Matthew Coomber, assistant professor of biblical studies, St. Ambrose University. In the Chapel.
- Mental health court in the Quad Cities. Hear from a panel about helping people with mental illness who are accused of non-violent crimes reintegrate into the community successfully.
- The warmth of your greeting carries something of the church with it. As you greet others, glance at other names and look for your chance to greet them.
- In the Luther Loft.
- Supper of the Lamb – A Culinary Reflection (part 3 of 3). Pastors Amy Diller and Al. Semone’s elec. mail: semone.electric.mail@stpaulqc.org.
- People as letters – the work of the prophets (Isaiah). Pastor Katy Warren. In Room 208.

NEXT SUNDAY

- Mental health court in the Quad Cities: Hear from a panel about helping people with mental illness who are accused of non-violent crimes reintegrate into the community successfully.
- The warmth of your greeting carries something of the church with it. As you greet others, glance at other names and look for your chance to greet them.
- The Bible is filled with texts that assume people’s right to a livelihood, often emphasizing the community’s responsibility for ensuring their members’ economic well-being. Matthew Coomber, assistant professor of biblical studies, St. Ambrose University. In the Chapel.
- Mental health court in the Quad Cities: Hear from a panel about helping people with mental illness who are accused of non-violent crimes reintegrate into the community successfully.
- The warmth of your greeting carries something of the church with it. As you greet others, glance at other names and look for your chance to greet them.
- In the Luther Loft.
- Supper of the Lamb – A Culinary Reflection (part 3 of 3). Pastors Amy Diller and Al. Semone’s elec. mail: semone.electric.mail@stpaulqc.org.
- People as letters – the work of the prophets (Isaiah). Pastor Katy Warren. In Room 208.